BATTLE BETWEEN ROBBERS

And Citizens While the Other Con federates Took the Coin From the Safe-Managed to Escape on a Handcar-No Trace of the Bandits.

SHANESVILLE, O., Dec. 13 .- Four masked men, discovered in the act of dynamiting the vaults of John Doerschuck's private bank early to-day, drove off all who attempted to interfere and got away with between $3,000 and

An explosion of nitro glycerine about 3 a. m., awakened John Rhodes, who lives opposite the Doerschuck bank. Rhodes saw two men working at the vault doors, while two others stood guard at the main entrance of the bank building. Rhodes, revolver in hand, rushed to the street and was met by a volley from the sentinels. He held his ground, however, until his weapon was empty. Mary Knowles, a relative of Banker Doerschuck, heard the shooting and raised a window of her room, only to draw the fire of the robbers.

Dozens of the inhabitants appeared by this time, but most of them were unrmed and were forced to conceal them selves by the shower of bullets which greeted every newcomer.

Removed Vault Doors.

In the course of half an hour the robbers managed to remove the doors of the vault and pryed open the money drawers. They hastily dumped all the specie in bags and, leaving the bank, backed through the streets to the tracks of the Wheeling & Lake Erie road. A handcar had been secured and the men disappeared toward Baltic.

A trace of blood was found leading from the bank. Alarms were sent out in all direction by telephone. A few hours later it was announced that the hand car had been found abandoned between there and Baltic. Bloodhounds were secured and a large posse at once started on the trail.

It is believed the gang is the same one which recently looted a bank at Se-

In the original plans the British, German, French, Russian and other fings were draped about the chamber. But through a misunderstanding of officials it was thought that the British Jack was the only one displayed, and in order that no invidious distinction should be shown, a plece of bunting was placed over this flag, thus omitting it from the general plan, while the other national flags remained. Although the incident caused some comment, it was dismissed by the officials as wholly unimportant and due to misunderstanding, Hoyt's Padded Cell for Drunken Guests.

There is one feature of the Hoy house which the Lambs could use to advantage and which they would not have in a new place. That is a padded cell. Not everybody who went on a visit to Hoyt saw the padded cell, but it was there just the same. Hoyt did not build that adjunct to the place to be 31together funny. There was a seriousness in his purpose when he had the carpenters erect and prepare the dun-

"The preliminary steps were taken towards the formation of a strong and those fellows from New York would be "I figured," he said, "that a lot of coming up to see me now and then, and which will be to force the American once in awhile a fellow would show up with a load on. I didn't intend having my peaceful family disturbed by any imported 'jags' calling themselves my friends, so I had the cell built for them. I didn't want to punish a fellow, you know. I had everything in there to make him comfortable, but he couldn't get out until I let him out and he could have any variety of jims that he liked and never scare a bird off a bush.

"That cell cost $3,000. My governor came up and looked at it and said: 'Charley, you always were a dinged fool; putting all that money into that contrivance.' Well, you know the story of the cell somehow got out to the papers, and I know that I got a hundred housand dellars' worth of free advertising on it. Of course, the governor couldn't foresee that."

Whether or not the cell is intact I to not know. It seems to me that Hoyt afterward said he had torn it down hecause he put William Mack in it one time and Mack made such a roar with that bass voice of his that the runblings penetrated the deadened walls and the people of the village flocked up to the house to see Charley Hoyt's lions.-New York Telegraph.

Rallroad bonds irregular. The stock market to-day was less inder the influence of the strength of individual stocks and more under that of the coming exigencies of the money market. To-day the first preferred sold at 52% in the late dealings. Extreme advances for to-day in the company's stocks were for the common 3%; for the first pre-ferred 4% and for the second preferred 5%. The authoritative announcement that a contract of sale had been signed between the Pennsylvania coal com-pany and a syndicate headed by the central power in the anthracite trade, vas the cause of the buoyancy. The bid for Pennsylvania coal was rapidly advanced without bringing out any stock except an occasional order to the wide intervals until a full lot of 100,000 shares was sold at 735 and another at and 675 asked. The market for this stock has been purely nominal and it sold at 450% last month, which was the highest price of the year. Notwithstanding the notable effect of this operation on the Erie stocks, and efforts made by speculators to emphasize the general benefit to result to the anthraite industry as a whole, the effect was very small, even on the other anthracite tocks, which were none of them more than steady. Some firmness was manifest in the southwestern railways on buying seemingly in the interest of the wise selling was general throughout the list and those stocks which have persisted in their upward movemen this week were as a rule the weakest. This was noticeably true of the steel group, in which the range ran up to 2 points or over. Sugar and the York public utilities fell from about 2 points to 3¼ in Consolidated Gas. number of other prominent stocks both in the railroad and industrial list fell from 1 to 1%. The large absorption of special stocks earlier in the week by powerful financial interests with independent resources has encouraged the hope among speculative operators that some relief was to be forthcoming from the threatened stringency in the money supply. At one time it centered in an expectation that the treasury department would buy several millions of bonds for the sinking fun. The inconsistency was pointed out of bidding for government bonds by the treasury at the same time that they are inviting conversion into the refunding twos, which is to continue until December 31.

Wheat, Corn and Oats Lower; Provisions Higher.

CHICAGO—Wheat was moderately active and declined on liberal receipts and anticipation of a bearish government report Monday, May closing $4,60 %c under yesterday, Corn-closed $4,60 %c, and oats a shade lower. Provisions at the close were a shade to 10c higher. In the wheat pit considerable stuff recently acquired was turned adrift on a moderately active market. May opened unchanged at 73%c to 74c, being for the moment supported by the steadiness a moderately active market. May opened unchanged at 73%e to 74c, being for the moment supported by the steadiness of the Liverpool and Antwerp markets and vague rumors of export business done yesterday. Thereafter the tendency was downward. Receipts were liberal and holders feared the government report due Monday. A prospect that northwest stocks for the week will show an increase of 1,200,000 bushels was not encouraging. May dropped to 73%e. The close was weak, May ½9%e lower at 73%e. Exporters reported 18 leads taken for export. Scaboard clearences in wheat and flour were equal to 384,000 bushels. Primary receipts aggregated 639,000 bushels, compared with 473,000 bushels last year. Minneapolis and Duluth reported 428 cars, against 583 last week and 351 a year ago. Local receipts were 82 cars, none of contract grade. Corn was depressed by freer country offerings and excellent weather. The market was rather firm at the start, but the buying lasted for a moment only. May sold between 384@38%e and 45%c closing %c lower at 35%. Receipts were 201 cars, none of contract grade.
